- Treasurer's Report: No Treasurer's report today.
- Cookies: Thank you Joanne for bringing in goodies. Next week is Susan.
- Guests: Welcome to our guest Ronnie today.
- Website: Dennis is away this week. Pat will update the website this week.
- Business:
- Veteran 'Stackable Snowman' – 12 collected so far. We will have more dowels next week.
- Brigden Fair – Possibility for the Ark to be shown as a sponsor display. It does not qualify for any of the divisions because it is a group project instead of made by one individual. If you have an animal pair to add to the Ark, please bring it in within the next 2 weeks.
- Christmas tree ornament blanks – Lots of blanks to chose from...make an ornament and donate it to our club's Christmas tree. Simply add it to the tree. This will be raffled off at the Christmas dinner. Leather and copper is available at the front for making the choral mouse. Unfortunately the link to instructions for this project is no longer available. Here is an old snip from the Woodworkers Institute website.

Bark Carving class – In the new year we are planning a bark carving class led by Garry and Leo. Cost of the class will be the cost of the wood. Expect <$10. Today we asked by a show of hands how many would be interested in taking the class. About 15 people said they were interested. More info to follow about the class in the new year.

Outreach to members unable to attend meetings – Wayne is interested in starting a committee for dropping in to visit members at their residence. Please see Wayne if you are interested in this outreach program.

OWCA – The Ontario Wood Carvers Association is looking for a magazine editor. In future it will only be offered as an e-publication. Here is a link to the latest magazine.
